TO WHOM IT MAY BE CONCERN

I am very glad to state my full support for Mr Rafael Mendes Campello on the grounds that this student is truly equipped to join whatever high-level engineering program. I met him this year (2016), as a regular student of the course "Introduction to Statistics for Engineers"

(http://www.de.ufpe.br/~hmo/introducao_a_estatistica.html)

on the undergrad in Engineering, at the Federal University of Pernambuco. He proved on occasion be hard working and was the most motivated student. He ranked 1st in a course intended for engineering, with a total of about 100 students. As a matter of fact, he is the sole student of mine that achieved a 10/10 score in the last years. He also proved to be very dedicated, responsible. As a matter of fact, he followed the entire course with continuous interest, always showing commitment, a very good reasoning and astonishing reports.

There is no doubt whatsoever that that the prospects for a good result are the best possible. He will always carry out a work quite above the average.
